SUBJECT: Fort Bragg to Begin Enforcing Stricter ID Requirements

As reported by IAM e-Gov/Mil on Jan 9, 2018

Officials with the nation's largest military installation said they would begin enforcing stricter ID requirements on Jan. 22.

The requirements are part of the long-delayed enforcement of a federal law known as the REAL ID Act. It also affects other military installations in North Carolina, including Camp Lejeune, and other federal facilities, such as federal courthouses.

"As it stands right now, visitors to Fort Bragg without a REAL ID will need a second form of ID after January 22, 2018," said Timothy Prevost, captain of the guard at Fort Bragg.

Fort Bragg began enforcing parts of the REAL ID Act last year, when it stopped accepting driver's licenses from states that were not compliant with the law.

Those without a REAL ID will need additional documents to obtain a visitor's pass to Fort Bragg, officials said. Those documents can include a U.S. passport, permanent resident card, foreign passport with temporary I-551 stamp, a U.S. military or draft record or a Native American tribal document, among other forms of identification.

Visitors with a current pass to access Fort Bragg may continue using that pass until it expires, officials said. At that time, they would need a REAL ID or additional forms of identification to obtain a new pass.

Fort Bragg requires all visitors to be vetted through the National Crime Information Center prior to receiving a pass.
